

ONLINE ADMISSION TEST - INFORMATION

The admission test for the undergraduate degree programmes of the Faculty of Psychology, consisting in two parts, is delivered through a dedicated web testing platform which implements a special control system.

The system guarantees the facial recognition of each candidate, blocks any program not included in the test on the personal device and monitors the progress of the test by recording an audio/video file.

The accepted operating systems are:

- PC: Windows 11, 10, 8
- Mac: MacOS 10.12 or superior

Clicking this link will give access to another page (ProctorExam), which MUST remain open throughout the duration of the test (PART 1 and PART 2). Through the ProctorExam control system, candidates will be asked for proof of identity via their computer's webcam by framing a VALID IDENTITY DOCUMENT with photograph.

They will also be asked to use a smartphone or tablet to film the environment and the location where the test is taking place.

Once the identity recognition phase is over, it is possible to carry out PART 1 of the test.

Once PART 1 of the test has been completed and saved, it is compulsory to continue with PART 2, following the instructions provided and returning to the start page of the platform (Moodle). From this moment on, the second link is can be selected to carry out PART 2 of the test.
